

What is the College Bound Scholarship?

High School Students: College Bound is an early commitment of state financial aid to eligible students who sign up in middle school and fulfill the College Bound pledge. The College Bound Scholarship combines with other state financial aid (like the Washington College Grant) to cover average tuition, some fees, and a book allowance at over 60 institutions in Washington.

What is the pledge?

In middle school, College Bound students promise to:

- Graduate from a Washington State high school or home school with a cumulative 2.0 GPA or higher.
- Submit a FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid) or WASFA (Washington Application for State Financial Aid) as soon after October 1 as possible in your senior year of high school.
- Have no felony convictions.

*Household income must be less than or equal to this amount.

What do I need to do to get College Bound?

- Meet the College Bound Pledge requirements.
- Enroll in college within a year of completing your high school diploma.
- Stay in good standing at your college.
- Apply for financial aid every year you are in college.
- Your family's income meets the requirements on the adjacent Median Family Income chart.

What does College Bound need from me?

- Make sure College Bound has your current contact information.
- Check with your high school counselor to make sure you're on track to meet the pledge requirements.
- Prepare for your college search by looking through the list of eligible schools on the College Bound website at bit.do/cbseligiblecolleges.

What else should I know?

Starting in the 2019-2020 academic year, some 9th grade students may be eligible to complete a College Bound application. Talk with your counselor or contact the College Bound Scholarship program staff to get more information about your eligibility.

The College Bound Scholarship is a state funded program administered by the Washington Student Achievement Council.
